It is most important you put a "perhaps" in front of every sentence, especially this one.

The Cons of being a ghost with a pulse

1. Lots of water is required because the kidneys and many other organs in the body no longer work so drinking perhaps four quarts of water a day is required and also thirst and hunger is not detectable after a period of years so one can simply lay down for a week or so and they will have renal failure and perhaps kidney failure perhaps two weeks is the far end of no liquid intake although going with small amounts of food even one meal a day seems to work.
2. The bowel system does not work anymore and so its important to try to keep food going through the system and also if one eats some meat and waits a two days to pass it, it will smell like raw sewage and so perhaps the intestines can easily become ruptured especially the lower intestines and so to address that fruit and vegetables are perhaps the best way to go and avoid meat all together. Perhaps THIS Has something to do with the vegan movement or perhaps that's just a coincidence.
3. Perception of course is much different for ghosts with a pulse and there are many things a living may never even notice about the world around them where a ghost with a pulse will certainly notice and this of course can lead to the individual becoming stressed or timid and it may seem there is no obvious reason for that relative to the living but that's only because the living are not operating on the same senses that the ghost with a pulse use. Perhaps saying its two different worlds of perception is accurate. This also includes any media source ie television and the internet and newspapers as well as normal day to day traveling outside and in traffic and at malls and places other beings frequent.
4. Finally the various forms of what may be considered "magic" or "spirit workings" but of course the main difference between living and ghosts with a pulse is that the latter is aware that that is happening and the living perhaps are not aware at all of that aspect. This of course perhaps is relative to the two worlds of perception.
5. The one aspect that's is important is the fact that after the remedy is applied there is perhaps between a two year and ten year adjustment period depending on the age when remedy is applied and also factors that relate to everyone being a bit differe3ntly7 relative to adjustment from living to ghost with a pulse, mostly mental aspects.

[QUOTE="Sev, post: 875200, member: 20739"]Why does the ghost have a pulse?[/QUOTE]

perhaps there is much speculation how the flaw in the brain perhaps the hypothalamus somehow when it gives the strongest signal it can give the death signal, if the person does not act accordingly then the hypothalamus determines that person just died. Like in that movie "the Game" where there is a "team" who sets out to make sure the main character jumps off the building unaware there is a net at the bottom. So when the main character is looking down from a great height his hypothalamus is saying if you jump your dead and so when he jumped something in the mind perhaps a flaw tells his mind, this one has passed. Perhaps the only things that can be an issue is there does not appear to be a way undo it once it is done. So like if your watching a scary movie in the dark alone, and your mind says turn on the light because you are scared and if you don't your mind will determine you passed on. One guy put a 12 gauge under his chin and pulled the trigger that's a nice example and his angle was far to shallow so he just blew off his face, perhaps that be a ghost with a pulse but no face. One tribe just puts the three year old's on a log a distance from camp and leaves them over night and in the morning they go to see what they caught on the trot line. Its seems humans are aware of this flaw. If you try to act like you don't have situational awareness you will only end up acting like you do. Reality can't read and it don't have to write. The reality of the education is it appears if the being does not use right brain traits creativity for example before they apply the remedy then what happens is they apply the remedy and their right brain traits don't come back so they lose them for good. This perhaps is relative to time from education start til remedy is applied. So the equation:

Education + Time before remedy + use right brain traits = Mental state after remedy

So examples would be

12 years through high school + 2 years til remedy + no creative activities = after remedy just left brained

Thus the being is ghost with a pulse but they lost their right brain traits similar to the effect of not using limbs atrophy perhaps??? Her accent is hard to understand but doctor is asking her to drink a little water and at the end of the video i think i heard her telling doctor that "Water might go in her nose" That's something that happens, or you are afraid of, while drowning. And i can feel her fear.

"History offers few examples of people who can rival his solitude in terms of duration and degree. The one that comes closest is the "Lone Woman of San Nicolas"—an Indian woman first spotted by an otter hunter in 1853, completely alone on an island off the coast of California. Catholic priests who sent a boat to fetch her determined that she had been alone for as long as 18 years, the last survivor of her tribe. But the details of her survival were never really fleshed out. She died just weeks after being "rescued."

One aspect relative to religion of course is determining what exactly is religion. There are many religions and many beliefs and outside of the meat and potatoes it appears these religions are rules that vary. The meat and potatoes aspect is simply not being okay with exposing children to the literacy because it harms them mentally and may kill them because it alters their perception. It would kind of be like saying to someone giving a six year old child a strong dose of pcp or lsd and then allowing the child to walk on a ledge of a high rise building. You perhaps would say giving them pcp is pretty messed up. That's pretty messed up to do that to a child. You may even not like that adult did that to a child.

You may even hate that adult if that child fell and did as a result of the adult giving them pcp. You may even take a serious interest in making sure that adult who did that to a child, suffers greatly. Most perhaps would agree that is a normal response to a stimuli experienced. For example adults in prison tolerate many beings in prison but child abusers and killers of children are not one of those beings they tolerate at all. You may perhaps even think I am doing this to scold you or incite you to do something about the realities of what literacy can do to children because it alters their perception factually.

"The main theme to emerge .. is that there appear to be two modes of thinking, verbal and nonverbal, represented rather separately in left and right hemispheres, respectively, and that our educational system, as well as science in general, tends to neglect the nonverbal form of intellect. What it comes down to is that modern society discriminates against the right hemisphere." - Roger Sperry - 1973

“as well as science in general” = reading writing and math the marks of the beast or the marks that alter perception and makes people act differently than they would.

So this is what religion is:

Gen 3:3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.= Zero Tolerance relative to teaching children reading writing and math. Why?

"our educational system, as well as science in general, tends to neglect the nonverbal form of intellect."
= Harms or destroys the child's mind altering perception and that essentially is why young kids commit suicide. Making decisions that appear to demonstrate lack of cognitive ability.

Reid Adler (15) committed suicide by an unknown method

Elizabeth Mattera (15) took her own life

Chiedza Brown (15) committed suicide by hanging = altered perception that leads to decisions that appear to be improper reactions to stimuli

You know like poisoning water supplies and destroying the environment and of course destroying tribes that are not literate. The literate dislike the illiterate because the illiterate are the literate before they got education, some sort of deep seeded form of suicide. Its like being angry at someone because they still have their mental faculties and you dont.

Example :

“ The "Lone Woman of San Nicolas"—an Indian woman first spotted by an otter hunter in 1853, completely alone on an island off the coast of California. Catholic priests who sent a boat to fetch her determined that she had been alone for as long as 18 years, the last survivor of her tribe. But the details of her survival were never really fleshed out. She died just weeks after being "rescued." = The literate detected a illiterate and hunted her down and murdered her. The insane see the sane as insane and cannot tolerate that. Thats why religion has zero tolerance to the marks because if you have tolerance towards the marks you are suicidal. When a child is born that child is illiterate and so civilization the cult of Thoth the literacy god has ways to ensure that child get the marks and they are gonna put the marks on your child and you have no say about it ever. If you resist they will take your child and say you are bad or evil for not allowing to make your child literate. Because insanity (the literate) see sanity (the child) as insanity.

So people not under the influence of any drugs or perception misalignment would not ever be okay with harming or killing children. It breaks the law of existence. If a species harms their own children then how does that species remain viable? It can't. If when baby ants were born the adult ants killed them or altered their mind so they could not function properly ants would not be. There would be no ants after a few generations and thus ants would be gone. That template can be applied to most creatures. So you may ask how do humans that do alter and sometimes kill their children using literacy at the command of Thoth the literacy god, how is it that humans are still here, that breaks that rule? We aren't here. We generally speaking, after Abraham and lots tried to burn down the cities of thoth and get rid of everyone in them, I think they spared a cousin who lived in thoths world, civilization, but eliminated the city and everyone else in them. They failed "us", us being human species.

This scenario of course played out many times in history perhaps the most recent was when the 100 million or so native American's went up against thoth the literacy god who rules civilization, in the American Indian wars. So about 100 million native American's were eliminated by Thoth and his troops and took control of America. That was essentially a reoccurrence of exactly what happened in the Abraham and Lot war 5000 years ago and also what is happening today in certain aspects that happen in countries where the "enemy" tears down or destroys schools or are against literacy. Thoth prefers reality to be confusion so reality looks like 1000 religions and 1000 countries and 1000 opinions and this keeps any form of cognitive ability to take hold. That's called a tactic.

When confusion reigns thoth thrives. One religion suggests say away from intrigue. That's just really saying perhaps say away from confusion.

One sad aspect perhaps is you may read this and assume the author is attempting to help you survive this situation. As you read these marks that have been arranged you may feel emotions and if these marks get into your mind they will make you start wondering if perhaps that this mark arrangement is not reality:

"What it comes down to is that modern society discriminates against the right hemisphere." - Roger Sperry – 1973

Because if that mark arrangement is reality then this mark arrangement may be reality.

"as well as science in general" = reading writing and math the marks of the beast or the marks that alter perception and makes people act differently than they would.

Then you may wonder if this mark arrangement is reality:

Reid Adler (15) committed suicide by an unknown method

Elizabeth Mattera (15) took her own life

Chiedza Brown (15) committed suicide by hanging

Then you may deduce its probable that you are in thoths literacy cult and pay taxes to kill your own brothers and sister mentally or physically and in your state of mind caused by literacy you may deduce you have to get out of that situation or you have remedy that situation because you are cool with many thing but not virgin sacrifices of your own brothers and sisters.

And you may conclude that whoever would arrangement the marks in this fashion are trying to harm me or make me confused or trying to knock me off my high horse of what I thought reality was and make it so my entire perception of reality is starting to dissolve the more I try to think about this topic.

You may even think the author of these marks is scary to you, or even an author you rather not read the mark arrangements, presented because this reality presented is not what I thought reality was or is. What the comment "pen is mightier than the sword" perhaps means, is that if you can find an aspect that can arrangement the marks in a proper way, it is far easier to destroy thoth or thoth mind or thoth being than using physical force ever is.

Although the remedy has been presented thoth usually wont apply it because well that's thoth, so its perhaps best just to tell thoth something's relative to mark arrangements and in a period of thoth will take care of himself for you. Perhaps it could be suggested you apply the remedy suggested because some of these authors don't play games but perhaps you should just think about the marks you have just read are saying. Why are you thinking the authors of these marks are trying to eliminate you the easy way?

Jer_8:8 How do ye say, We are wise, and the law of the LORD is with us? Lo, certainly in vain made he it; the pen of the scribes is in vain.

"the pen of the scribes is in vain." How can you say you are human and not insane when you allow your children to kill their self because they got literacy like you did? = How can you say you are intelligent when what you do, harming the big fishes fruit cups with the marks.= How can you say you are sane when what you do is insane. = How can you think you are safe when what you do is always fatal. The only thing worse than facing reality is thinking you are when you ain't. After many years of being suicidal i finally got half credit around oct 2008. I took some anti depressants and when I started feeling the affects of them I was aware that I took enough to start some sort of convulsions and i said to myself "You better call for help" and then i was just too tired of this situation I was in so I said "No" and somehow my mind determined that was as good as any suicide. On Oct 31 2008 at 1:38 pm est I was on some web site posting messages and i got this extreme "ahha" sensation and I think that when my mind was aware I was passed but it took some months after that for me to believe that is what happened. Suicides can be messed up but also that sometimes their strength, they can feel with things say people who pass mindfully by way of say brain tumor or car accident things like that. A few of the hardest things to contend with is the planet is full of these "half credits" and they have been around much longer it can seem like your stupid in contrast to them but also it seems they are attracted to ones that are new because there is some sort of value to the new ones. The hardest thing really probably for everyone in this situation is umm what they feel about their previous life and what feel about the world is permanent perhaps because when physical passing happens there is not going to be any "event". Like3 people who are alive they have this passing event in their mind of what it is like. Perhaps that is why society at least civilization attempts to hide this reality from the population but the downside of that of course is that there is no oversight. Its like the dumbest ghost people are smarter than the smartest living people and so mingling with them is perhaps frowned upon but if it happens the ghost people has to act dumb at all times. That's not a rule or a law, and perhaps no one even knows why it is like that, but it seems to just be a unspoken fact. Although some aspects believe they are oversight committees over others but they are really angry for various reasons betrayed in some degree I think that the word to explain many of course there is also the ones who never ever talk, and so figuring out what this all about is perhaps impossible. But this is all relative to civilization and that some sort of anomaly because the tribes due this ritual to their children at the age of three probably just because they can or perhaps it cuts back on food requirements perhaps very obvious explanations and not like some horror movie you watch with ghosts running around scaring people. So it kind of like reality is hard to determine relative to ghost p[people because you have civilization and the whole "education- were going to conquer the universe" mindset and then tribes that are more hunter gatherers and respect the environment/ act like they have some sense. Its like crazy ghost people /civilization against reasonable ghost people /tribes and the tribes always lose because they act reasonably. For example the tribes wouldn't tear down a Forrest and wipe out all the food sources to defeat the civilized because that would be "unreasonable" and the civilized would do anything to "win". It perhaps some odd thing that happens. A reasonable ghost cant act unreasonable and an unreasonable ghost can act reasonable, perhaps ever, and thus unreasonable always wins. That perhaps is why some never talk, because that one saying "if you cant say something nice dont say anything" and thus those ghosts never say anything ever. If you follow what im saying...

Gen 3:3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.

Gen 3:4 And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die:

Luk 17:33 Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it. = remedy/ observation

Remedy to what? Gen 3:3 "the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden" = "science in general, tends to neglect the nonverbal form of intellect. What it comes down to is that modern society discriminates against the right hemisphere." - Roger Sperry – 1973 = education is a way to "blind" the person or alter the mental perception aspects so the person is "playing with a half deck".

So in two lines Genesis 3:3-4 the nature of the situation relative to humans can be revealed but also the nature of the being who wrote these texts 5000 years ago can also be determined. If you find a satellite picture of the US at night and look where the cities are you see they are lite up well and the places where there are no cities are dark. So a night satellite picture of the us or even a world picture can show you what places have electricity and what places do not. So if you were in a combat situation you could easily determine where most humans were living or where human congregate just looking at the night satellite photos. That is simil.ar to what these genesis 3:3,4 is. This also reveals perhaps that re3ligiopl is not about some deity looking to gain our favor or whatever else reason you may perc3eive what religion is. Religion is tactics used by humans to attack whatever this aspect that favors literacy is. Literacy is science. Scie4nce has some go9als just like any belief system does but it is in contrast to religion because religion perceives people or humans are more important than most things but in contrast science believe4s information or scientific progress is more important than most things including humans. That's not a shocker because if science though humans were more important than scientific progress then it would not be science it would be religion. So..

Religion = people and human feelings and emotions are most important

Science = Scientific progress is most important.

So science is this collection of information and if the information is collected properly progress can be made and so information collection is perhaps sciences biggest factor. Because science has its priorities that means that science is just this collection of information and some of that information is in the form of recipes. How to make electricity. How to make water from sea water. How to make a rifle. How to make a bullet. How to make paint. How to make a house. This is what science is all about these recipes and thus when new recipes are discovered the scientific followers, science is a cult type religion, then science celebrates. You can often hear news reported that starts off with "scientists discovered ..." = a new recipe from the science group. The science group has some aspects that make them appear every welcoming but their "footprint" also reveals their shortcomings. Thus their overall "plan" includes everyone gets education and education is reading writing and math and thus science. So depending on a person awareness that may seem like a great thing but science looks at people as a secondary factor perhaps well behind finding new blue prints or recipes. And so good and evil is perhaps not accurate in de3scribing this situation relative to civilization because the "good" is literate and the "evil" are also literate and they are what make up civilization. Thus religion itself does not really exist because the first rule of religion is : Gen 3:3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said,

Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. And that's = No literacy/science/reading writing and math. The reason being is that literacy taught to children breaks many other "religious" laws. Though shall not kill. Literacy can and does later the mind of the child and sometimes that child kills their self over seemingly stupid reasons because their cognitive ability is altered because they were taught something known to be harmful to them. Though shall not bear false witness. Well if you got literacy and someone didn't inform you that literacy may harm your mental abilities because it favors left hemisphere then they deceived you or hid reality of the situation from you because if they did say literacy taught to you as a child may ruin your mind you perhaps would have said, no literacy for me. If you know anyone who committed suicide when you were in high school or even shortly after it's perhaps 100% certain that the literacy pushed on them considering their mind doesn't develop until they are over 20, is the reason they are dead now. So if you recall the satellite map at night of the places people are, think about that map and think about literacy and perhaps you would see all of civilization has literacy. So there are these three groups that appear to form,

Science = literacy

Religion = zero tolerance to religion

Tribes = No contact with civilization(science) or the religious

Thus religious people in civilization are not religious they are pretending or they are literate and never applied the remedy luke 17:33 so they are "blind" to reality because literacy affects most importantly awareness. So it could be deduced anyone in civilization that suggests they are religious are either "pretending" or are "unaware". The reason for this is because religion has zero tolerance to literacy.

Gen 3:3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. = Zero tolerance to literacy, the apple pie.

This also works on several levels. Because the Abraham and Lot burning down the literate cities shortly after this "zero tolerance rule" demonstrates that if you are literate you die. So Abraham and Lot surrounded the cities and burned them down and everyone in them. So that one level of this comment. It could perhaps be explained if you are literate then you are no longer religious and so you die. One another level this is saying if you are literate that means you were taught something that alters the mind and thus you will die because if you play with what is, the sound mind when you are born, it will come back to haunt you. Or perhaps if you notice a person who uses steroids to gain muscle bulk and say that person is huge and strong and way better than a person who doesn't use steroids, but then you hear they die because the steroids harmed them, then you say steroids is stupid because eventually it came back to haunt that person. It's like a quick rush at first and seems to beat the "sound mind" person but in the long run it's suicide. So that's why on one level science/literacy is suicidal, because its see's gaining scientific recipes is more important than humans or people well beings, and that's suicidal. So that is perhaps a prerequisite because religion is not suicidal and thus science has to be or science would be religion. So if you think literacy taught to children is acceptable then you also think a person who uses steroids is also acceptable. Literacy makes a human child a scientific leaning living creature and thus destroys what that child is born as, and that's a hunter/gatherer and sometimes nomad creature. There are no such thing as a sound minded scientist. There is only one kind of human and that a hunter gatherer and sometimes nomad. It appears people who get no literacy and live in very cold climates do not wander very much since its all snow anyway. Some humans in forest do wander to give the area time to recover from their using up the food supply, and of course that's a symptom of having a sound mind. Science is not allowed to have a sound mind and thus does not do things that are relative to having a sound mind. They destroy the environment and mentally abuse their children by exposing them to literacy and not even warning them. Warning the child to the dangers of literacy is a symptom of a sound mind and also religion because religion cares about the person over everything else and science cares about scientific progress over everything else.

So when you see a child exposed to literacy and then it goes south and they kill their self:

Shubham Patnaik (13) allegedly took his own life

You may think, that's not suicide that's murder and since scientist even proved it can harm the mind that's first degree murder, you are thinking religious thoughts not scientific thoughts. Religious thoughts are that child mattered and should not have been exposed to literacy or maybe that child should have been assisted once they were showing signs literacy harmed them bad. Scientific thoughts are humans aeven children don't matter in contrast to how much scientific progress matters. For example:

If science said since it has been proven by roger sperry I that literacy can harm the mind of children no more literacy without a permission slip. That's a religious point of view becausee4 it recognizes a child and that's child's well being matters. It could also perhaps be looked at as anti-science point of view. Roger Sperry was a scientist that proved literacy can harm the mind and thus sperry was not a scientist because he said science can mess you up bad considering your mind does mature until you are twenty. I like double agent better . It is kind of like this using programming language:

If science is harmful to children then no science taught to children

If science is not harmful to children then okay to teach children science

Its called an If then statement.

Religion would pick the one it believes is actual or honest or real and thus science would pick the one that does not negate scientific progress thesis.

If science is not okay to teach children then scientific progress is in jeopardy

If science is okay to teach children then scientific progress is not in jeopardy

So religion would pick the first of each "if then" grouping and thus science would pick the second of each grouping. Thus the term anti-christ but that's perhaps way to recent that's only 2000 years old, religion is the person who says "steroids harms your body and it may seem like you are strong at first eventually you will be destroyed if you shoot steroids" Anti-religion is the one who says "steroids will make you have huge muscles and you will be great looking with huge muscles." Depending on who you are one of those statements is stupid or insane or not a smart choice to make. But in reality without being aware of much, you can deduce from what you have seen that shooting steroids usually ends up the same way, the person's body is not made to shoot steroids into it to make muscle gain faster. The issue is science religion has nothing to do with ability to reason or being concerned about the feelings of others or being concerned about the welfare of children, because those aspects are the realm of religion and although some people who got literacy and have not applied the remedy to it yet. May say that's not how they see things, that's why there is literacy in part so people who may actually have "religious" leanings relative to how children are taught, would not be aware of what they say, if they say science is concerned about the well being of children. Science is concerned about scientific progress religion is concerned about the well being of people. And so you may say "then why do all countries expose children to literacy?" Usually and generally speaking Abraham and Lot tried to burn down the cities and it wasn't enough so now it all science. So there are some people who attempt to restore the Abraham and Lot method of dealing with the literates one aspect always comes back and that is, the religious are concerned with the feelings of others and science is not, science is concerned with scientific progress and anything that happens like a war means science gets to make more scientific weapons to test and increase science. But the religious people were aware of this and thus well they religious people have a drive like scientists but it is a drive based on "existence" and contrary science is not based on existence. You can look at the world relative to the environment and factor in civilization is about literacy and say "Oh that's why they destroy the environment and kill off species to study them" Science cult is like someone standing there on steroids and huge muscles and saying no one can mess with me and I am going to inject my own child with steroids and make them as big and smart as I am and you are going to like it. The you realize there are many things going on in this synthetic society called civilization but laws are not one of them. The biggest flaw in the marks/literacy is the purveyors of literacy make sure everyone is literate and that's a fatal war decision. For example you can read the following.

Someone has the copy right in a book that generally explains if you watch a scary movie alone in the dark and when your mind says run to the light switch or you will die and you do not but just say "im okay with that" your mind will believe that and you will be a ghost with a pulse. Now if you couldn't read that would mean nothing to you. A tribe not associated with civilization could not read that and thus it would mean nothing to them. You can read because science has no bounds and no bounds means no cognitive ability. Like some describe God as all knowing. Or God loves everyone. That's no cognitive ability. Someone who likes some things and dislikes some things is a person with cognitive ability. Although cognitive ability may be expressed by pretending like you have no cognitive ability. If your existence depends on you demonstrating you have no cognitive ability then demonstrating no cognitive ability is a symptom of cognitive ability.

This is the picture of the navy yard shooter and I looked up the official explanation of what these words meant and thought that was an attempt but nothing morally obligatory. So anyway this picture shows two distinct comments the first one is "better this way" and the second is "my elf weapon"

Better this way is a comment relative to the reality of the situation meaning the "scribes" the ones who put mark on your head when you were a baby and you're still trying to figure out why they would do that to someone as important as yourself. It's a comment to the "belief" system of our heroic civilization. The comment is an answer to "what doesn't kill you makes you stronger" of course it's rather elementary in scope because lots of children die after getting exposed to the marks, literacy. So in one way this navy shooter is a repeat of the comment "better to burn out than fade away" and many people with awareness say that as a kind of warning. So this navy shooter is saying its better to just get it over with because they take "what doesn't kill us makes us stronger" belief system relative to their "scientific" religion very seriously. So he is saying something and then putting his awareness to practice. So he is making a statement "better this way" and then "shooting elves" and putting to practice. he is attempting to teach. Teach by explanation and then by showing it in practice. So then the other comment "my elf weapon" and elf is a person who was exposed to the mark, the literacy. reading writing and math and then they apply the remedy to that mental "damage" and that remedy is explained further here : http://www.liveleak.com/view?i=b8a_1448059630

So an elf is kind of like an abused child that discovers it has been abused and seeks out some sort of justice or retribution but in the case of civilization since they have laws that say you can't not be literate meaning you have to get the literacy as a child, they seek "assistance" after negating the literacy damage and find civilization is the ones who determined to do that damage on your mind and thus you seeking help , your only choice is to seek someone in civilization. Its like going to mambala to seek help from being abused as a child. Its like going to school to find someone who can help you take act against what is happening/ or happened to you at school. Its like smoking crack to let everyone know smoking crack is harmful. So these "elves" are children you wake up from the education induced neurosis and they are surrounded by the literates who like to do that to children and so they are defenseless, outnumbered and I think "fuked" works in that explanation, and so they have to serve these literate things and so they are elves, or servants of the literate ones or the ones who like to harm children mentally to make them "tougher". I personally like the tribe that builds a 100 foot tall tower out of bamboo and then the males get on top and tie a vine around their foot and jump off and if the vine is long enough they wont hit the ground at full force but the goal in fact is to hit the ground but just the tip of your head. Its like you fall from 100 feet and just when your head hits the ground the vines pulls you back. I didnt see any females doing that so I assume in that case the females must be "too weak" to jump off a 100 foot tower in order to hit your head on the ground to show, your infinite power. So anyway these elves are abused children that woke up in a situation they could not get away from so they have two choice kill their self or serve the very ones they hate. So that picture is explaining those two things:

"better this way" = better to die now than when you turn into one of them

"Elf weapon" attacking those who serve the literate

By serve I mean they go after anyone who wakes up from the literacy because anyone who wakes up from the literacy is a threat to them because literacy harms the mind and if a child commits suicide as a result that first degree murder and if that is discovered then the civilized people may start to say we have laws against that and by the way what is the remedy and of course the remedy is the evidence of ghost hotel and so if the education, reading writing and math is exposed as harmful on a new station then they ask what the remedy to that extreme left brain state and that is "mindful death" or ghost town, and then the entire "show" is exposed and because the remedy is just "get your mind to be scared like it thinks you will die watching a scary movie in the dark alone" and then this flaw in the mind means your mind will think you have died and start acting like that. .So it seems if your mind thinks you have died you have died. And so from then on you are a ghost people. Its a flaw because it can happen if you hit your head or get a brain tumor or mess up in a suicide attempt. the tribes do it also but they just put the kids a distance from camp on a log and leave them over night. some sort of "bump on a log" version. So you may wonder why would civilization keep that a secret the ghost thing. It seems like because the literacy alters perception and thus cognitive ability , whoever runs civilization or thinks they do, is lacking cognitive ability or they are not even aware of reality enough to determine keeping something that happens anyway perhaps even with all creatures is kind of a bit "controlling". Like if i tried to control where it rained i would be using lots of resources for a task that not possible. Maybe better explain trying to keep the rain when it did rain from hitting the ground. So an observer would see all this plastic everywhere to keep the rain from hitting the ground and say "Are feeling okay the rain is gonna hit the ground no how well you defend against it" perhaps they are bored or perhaps they are making decisions because the adults who are supposed to defend them against aspects harming them have all long since left and so they are stuck as children forever because the adults they are supposed to admire and attempt to be like have long since parted.

This vampire goes into a restaurant and the waiter asks 'How do you like your steak' and that vampire says "Rare."

Another movie that is passive suggestive is the movie Platoon. In the first 10 minutes of the movie it shows troops getting off a plane in Vietnam. Twice the same comment is suggested/ The soldiers that have been there in Vietnam for a while are talking about the soldiers that just arrived on the planes and they say "Three sixty five and a wakeup" If you are someone who has not applied the remedy then that makes no sense at all, the "wakeup" part/ The guy in the movie says something that makes no sense to a person who hasn't applied the remedy. He is saying the tour of duty for the troops is a year (365) that was a tour of duty back in Vietnam and then says and a wakeup. So a person who is not aware of the remedy would never be able to determine what wakeup even means because they are not aware the education did something to their mind to determine they are categorized as "asleep" and thus needing a wakeup. So that soldier is communicating to other soldiers who are awake and not to the soldiers who are still asleep/ Its like a club of ones who are awake making jokes in the face of ones who are asleep and the ones who are asleep have absolutely no possible way to determine what "wakeup" even means. This perhaps makes the ones who are awake making comments seem cruel or angry or hateful to the ones asleep but in reality they would not even be saying that at all unless it was "horrible" a horrible reality. They care about the ones who are asleep but the remedy is so they wake up but not the word "i was asleep and now I am awake" its the definition "People came to the guys wake" that thing people attend at a funeral. So the education alters the mind to such a degree the only remedy is to "reset the mind" like a computer reset and that means the person has to die mindfully and then if that works they come back online with full mental capacity but they are dead undead or living dead, I think living dead is the proper paradox to explain it. So some think the living dead, those remedied are wanting to wake up the sleeping who got education and didn't remedy it but in reality the living dead don't like to see their brothers and sisters in that mental state of mind where they cannot even understand simple comments like "365 and a wakeup" because mentally it is grotesque. Its like sitting at a bar talking and seeing a good friend laying on the ground trying to make out with a bar stool leg. Its trivial at first but after years and years its starts to be sad. Perhaps the saddest thing about it is the friend on the ground mentally incapacitated is not that way by his own choice but because its against the law to not get education that can and does do that to the mind. I think it generally known as "compulsory education law" That means its illegal to not have your mind exposed to the marks, reading writing and math, and actually its not reading writing or math it just math, writing letters is just an extension of the math. You can see that when you see a Ouija board, all letters and numbers are represented and some say that ouiji board is evil so dont mess with it and that in fact is just a repeat of genesis 3:3

Gen 3:3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. = dont mess with Ouija boards or reading writing and math, unless of course it is against the law not to eat the apple pie. If its against the law not to eat the apple pie then you have no choice and no one you know has a choice about it and thus the only thing you have to do after that is get very good at explaining the remedy or the "wakeup"

As far as a detector in the previopus comment It appears the dedtor is in fact also Genisis 3:3. Thats mean you say something proven by science.

x Y and Z is in fact science agreeing with genesis 3:3. Genesis 3.3 is just sayings exposing children to education because of Y, the mind doesn't develop until after 20, is in fact a hybridization of the human. So you can look at humans and say they arent really actimng like humans because they dont hunt and gather anymore they go to a job and have a fixed house with electronics or "technology" and they drive cars and cut down Forrest and walk around like they are some special creature and all other factors are secondary to them and humans that dont get the education have never and will never and can never act like that because thats not how humans have ever acted will ever act or can ever act unless something happened top their mind during childhood development that altered their base perception so now they walk around doing things no creatuire has ever done so they must "high" "sedated" "tripping" "under the influence" of something and that's the education. So these ghost people or living dead on one hand are aware of because they have hindsight, they are aware of what happened to them so they are also aware of what happened to everyone, the flood, when the guys in Genesis tried to stop this personality that decided all humans are gonna get educated and thus humans stop being and this hybrid scientific creature came to be. So that's why some movies and many other "stories" around at this reality and the ones that are not about this reality or situation tend to just be stories to keep people thinking about something else. Like pictures of women in bathing suits are supposed to detract attention away but in reality most tribes that don't get education their women go around naked all day and no one notices much, so it's like naked women are evil relative to the society that is "tripping" but in reality that's not anything bad at all and never has been and never will be unless of course you did something to alter your perception that made you start to act "paranoid" or "fearful" or "ashamed" and that can be seen in many drug perception altering situations like people on crack or meth or very drunk these sedated people start to act like society acts and society says it's normal.

So society shows symptoms of eating the apple pie but they think that symptom of being ashamed of nudity is "moral" "proper" or "correct" when in factual reality they are factually showing symptoms of being "stoned out of their mind" and the ancient texts agree :

Gen_2:25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed. = how tribes who don't get education see nudity

So this is a test point, if you think nudity is bad or evil or wrong you factually got education and you are showing symptoms of it because people or humans that don't get that perception altering drug called education have never will never and can never see nudity as evil bad or improper. It's shocking on the level that people that have been exposed to education will attempt to say things that makes it so they don't have to face the fact their parents allowed them to be educated and thus their parents allowed them to be mentally harmed by a third party. The parent child relationship is sacred and in this reality a child has to face the fact their parents allowed harm to come to them and thus their parents in turn are not their parents and never have been, their parents are of the influence of the aspect that believed harming or even killing children is acceptable. From that root they also have to face their government is also in league with that personality so in two areas they have to face reality that not only do they not have parents in the traditional sense but also their government is okay with harming children and even killing them to educate them. That anger or hatred in facing those two facts tend to be too much to bear for a person who got education and hasn't applied the remedy and even after the first few years after the remedy that reality is hard to face and causes some to run away from civilization and go live in the woods and they forever hate civilization and everyone associated with it. That's actually a normal and sound way to react because it's a symptom of being aware of reality. Mostly no belief system is stronger than the parent child relationship bond because that bond is not a belief it's hard coded in the mind or the brain and cannot be removed because someone says "we have to get education because the powers that be said so" It's not something that can be taken away because it's not relative to perception or logical arguments its a characteristic of most mammals and perhaps all creature that have offspring. So Genesis 3:3 is the "test" to determine what a persons mind set it.

If a person when asked what do you think about science proving education can harm or kill the child's mind and they say "never heard of that or I dont believe that or thats not possible" then they are either asleep, or awake but dont want anyone to know they are awake.

What do you think about this fact: " If you reflect back upon our own educational training, we have been traditionally taught to master the 3 R's: reading, writing and arithmetic -- the domain and strength of the left brain" -

That really weird how science has finally started to agree with 5000 years old religion comments. Maybe those guys in religion where so smart it took 5000 years for civilization to even begin to catch up with them. Maybe that's also a symptom of how much damage the literacy does us. It makes so slow mentally we have to go back in time 5000 years just get a cool drink of sanity water. The concept of an LSD party that lasts 5000 years is the comments made when the lsd party started are the most sane accurate meaningful comments and the comments made after the lsd party is 5000 years old is the comments that are least meaningful or relevant. swimplly put if your government is okay withrg exposing babies to a mental tool that not only can harm their mind but does harm theri and even makes some kill their self because the perception altering is so great, your government factually doesn't matter because it can even demonstrate slight evidence of cognitive ability and in fact can even make a dedcision relative to "is it okay to kill children or not" they always its okay. So they are not even capable of making a cognitive deision even if you take all the smart ones and ask them to make the decision they cant. They always although education can serious harm children mentally and even mentally harm enough they killo their self, we do have any issues with with that. The governments are not governments they are children mentally abused in a horrific way by education and when they applied teh remedy they were so scared of reality they joined the ones who abused them. That's a term Munchhausen by proxy or something. But is nice to be aware of reality because if you can face it, its better to get rid of it. Thats why genesis 3:3 and the supporting scientific comments are "Zero tolerance" to education. It means its not important what you say or what you group says , if you think its okay to harm our baby brothers and sisters with the education you are our enemy forever and we are already living dead, no what can you do anyway. I like the fact they decided to educate anything to arrives in the vicinity because I like arranging the marks in a linear fashion and they taught me how to and so in tha respect in a weird way I am in debt to them. I had to fill this post up with marks because the movie platoon version of the remedy is to "chase machine nests"

So they are sitting their and their leader syas charge that machine gun nets and they do and thus they apply a version of the remedy than can best be described as:

"One has to get the hypothalamus to give them the strongest signal it can give, the perceived death signal and when it does just ignore it or pay no attention to it." Anathema -Vol:18 Page 283

They had to block out their mind saying those bullets are coming fast and still charge, so war is on way to wake up because of that. I better proof read this. The remedy of course is how you trick your mind into thinking you are dead and then it uh works.

You may not wanna do it but considering the situation that makes perfect sense.

The first movie and an obvious movie that points to an old version is the movie Constantine The part where the girl say n"I want to do it"" and he says well this is fast version or fast track or something.

So he takes her and dunks her under water in the bath tub and that gets the mind to think she is drowning and he just has to hold her until the mind believes she is drowned and that's why she asks how long does it take and he says "as long as it takes" If you were aware he was making her a ghost you probably would laugh a lot more at that line. Although the water dunking version use dto trick the mind is effective on one level its very impractical on another level. It has the lore going for it used by some and taught by some as method but anytime you add a person to the equation it seems like it becomes more difficult. The applicant has to not be aware they are being held underwater to apply this remedy so in that respect it starts to get complicated because to them it appears like attempted murder but not the assistance person. So the minute you start to make them aware of what is actually happening the applicant may just say forget it" So in application of this water version its not very practice but on another level you defiantly will get the mind to give that "death signal" swiftly if you have your head held under water for between 30 seconds and 2 minutes so in that respect it very practice but it can go bad fast if applicant panics and breathes in and they may start harming the person holding them. Its perhaps a paradox because it works great to get the mind to give the death signal but works horribly because the person holding them has many chances to mess up. So it an interesting method and applied properly in the movie but it perhaps doesn't work as well in actuality. I never met anyone who used it. So it's mostly just a story and the lore attached to that, but without explanation an applicant perhaps would never deduce that's what it's all about.

The next movie is The Game.. That movie is essentially this whole big effort by these people who are paid to get a person to get to the stage of suicide and then they have to place him in a situation where he can achieve it and so the end of the movie is this guy on a tall building who is "depressed" and he jumps and is not aware they have a safety net below him so he believes he is jumping to his death and that's good because he also believes that and thus when he jumps the process is completed the moment he jumps the mind says "that's it this one is gone" and then the guy falls and hits a safety net and survives and then everyone is very nice to him and is concerned about safety and he isn't aware exactly what's going on but like the movie Constantine suggests the effects are immediate, like the girl immediately goes to start acting like the process worked that's not real but it had to be that way for the movie, they didn't want to take a 3 to ten year break after that to wait for her. So that version is great in the sense it will get the mind to think death is certain but not so great because not too many people have a safety net in their car. It's perhaps too much work. Keep in mind the tribes simply put their kids at the age of three on a log a distance from camp and leave them there overnight. That's economy. They do in bunches of 3-6 so it still works but it perhaps some safe way to do it at that age they don't have much information about what may happen in the dark away from the parents. Maybe that's a strong point of that version. So if you had to contrast that with civilization it means civilization is not economical nor liberal relative to this application and the tribes are liberal and also economical. That may be because they are intelligent and not concerned about turning an obvious flaw into a dramatic earth shattering money making escapade secret.

It seems that this ghost people of living death reality has this unsolvable aspect and it appears to be as a result of the method employed

So a person applies the remedy and using if then statements.

If person was educated and they liked math and or writing then A

If a person was educated and they like creative aspects then B

So a person A that applies the remedy will come out with a mind that is lacking right brain traits. It could perhaps better explained with if you get education and you love math and dislike creative aspects when you apply the remedy you are not going to get your right brain traits back you are going to just be a person with left brain traits and your right brain being disused so long prior to the remedy is gone forever can get it back. Like if you tied your hand behind your back for too long when you untie your arm its gone, no longer works. So those kind of spirits are called living dead, the right brain is like your conscience or anger as living dead said "anger is a gift" X

That means if you get education and don't use your right brain's traits when you apply the remedy you will find you didn't get your "soul" back. So when you experience reality after the remedy you may find everything is just great, always happy about everything and that is thus lacking a "soul" or an aspect you started with at birth but because of the education it was "killed". Thus anger is not anger its reality the conscience. Kind of like if someone took a child in front of you and started abusing the child in front of you if you just laughed or felt nothing that's what it would be like. That is not a person that is bad that is a ghost person that took a devastating hit when they got educated. Some children are exposed to education and still favor their right brain, musicians artists etc and so when they apply the remedy they have their "soul" or they have emotions and can feel and it could be they have a sound mind on the other side of the remedy, so they got lucky and somehow favored their right brain after the education and thus have a mind that is essentially unphased by the education after the remedy is applied. So Malcolm X said "Anger is a gift" meaning if you got education and you didn't do something to favor right brain when you apply the remedy you may come as an undead dead or living dead dead as opposed to living dead living. So you may deduce those people are in bad shape but in reality because this isn't talking about a weight loss program but actual death, they will "be at peace" in death forever because they don't have that "soul" aspect so they can see what the education is doing to us and how we are influenced by it, destroy the environment and mistreat others for stupid reasons and that doesn't really bother them or they are aware of it but that's okay by them they are not affected by what they see because their right brain aspects "soul" emotions feelings, is gone because they didn't favor it when the education was used to discriminate against it. So perhaps you can start to see this is not a "whoops we ate the apple pie again" but in fact perhaps an actual tactic relative to the living dead. Make the living dead have no feelings nor emotions and then they will do whatever you say because it doesn't matter to them much, you can tell them to harm their own children and they will say that's fine, because they were robbed of the right brain as a direct result of the education that was pushed on them as a child. But relative to when they pass on from the physical aspect they are "mindless" ghosts so in some respect considering everything forever they will be appearing to be at peace because they can "feel emotions" basically as far as cognition there is no one at home as a result of the education.

The other side is the ones that get their mind back. They are what the powers that be consider trouble because not only are they undead or living dead they are also feeling and thus able to think and make decisions. That could be seen by looking at say people in history. Hitler most likely applied the remedy in world war 1 when he was wounded in combat. So that ones "feeling" ghost in history. Certainly many others like MacArthur, and also many that are not popular with civilization like Bin Laden we was wounded and also Mullah Omar he was wounded by the Russian in the Afghan war in the 80's he got his eye shot out or so that's perhaps how he applied the remedy. Of course certain religions do things that favor right brain and in the case of that particular religion they do extreme memorization and that right brain, they are tasked with memorizing the Koran and that in turn means after they apply the remedy they keep their right brain traits of course just making music etc works. So it may appear to someone who hasn't applied the remedy that the ones who feel are better off than the ones who do not feel. That's where grasping that the remedy is a way to make humans into the living dead comes in because the fact is, they are both dead but their body seems to still function but their mental state or mental outlook doesn't change when they physically die and because this flaw they one way or another find out about is a way to make the mind think the person has died and thus once the mind believes it that person is dead factually but with working organs, their "feelings" or "emotions" for the ones who retain right brain aspects, remain forever. So when their body finally gives out they are forever in this "anger" state of mind but it's not anger because like that commercial on TV where they showed this Indian chief by a highway and many cars going by, and someone throws trash out the window and the Indian chief's feet and he sheds a tear. That's icky pee, and it's not crying crying for the living is something that can be maintained if your pet died you can be sad for many days and cry often etc, it's like the reverse of anger and that's not happy, happy is not real because of this vicinity it's more like many steps beyond anger. It's like someone who was in combat can watch a combat movie and become very sad or emotional because it reminds them of reality and another person who never was in combat could watch that same movie and that's awesome the bullets and cannons flying around. So that Indian chief was shedding a tear but not because he was angry at how the educationalists treat the environment he perhaps is aware someone did a number on them, but just it's alien behavior, like a person on crystal meth doing something and you saying that person is mentally under the influence but you're not mad at the person you are made as what that drug is doing to that person. But in this case you can't really be mad at the numbers 0 to infinity and the letters. You can't be mad at that because it's an inanimate object and not even alive it's just marks on papyrus so it seems rather harmless. So the ones who apply the remedy and come out with emotions or right brain traits they are forever like that forever, they are already dead that's the remedy is, and the remedy to reset your mind after the education. So sometimes like in case of someone I found named Matthew, he was injured in weight lifting and he took heavy painkillers and somehow that how he woke up and he saw what the score was and saw the reality and so about 2 years after the remedy he went to a gun range and didn't miss. And he was such a funny ghost he took a picture of himself and put it on Facebook of him pointing at his nose as "I know what's going on" and then he went to the gun range and called a person over to assist him then he put the gun in his mouth and pulled the trigger and what even more interesting is that gun range got it all on camera. I don't think he even planned that but I have the footage he was quite a character and perhaps he didn't reach the pondering that how he felt about this situation where he decided to kill himself was going to change or his feelings about it were going to change after he died. There is no indication if you off yourself after the remedy all the sudden you are going to feel better because you are already dead and how you feel about it after the remedy is how you are going to feel about it forever. If you are already a ghost person when you die you don't become a ghost version 2.0 you already are a ghost. So it seems like education is creating many many spirits or ghosts that are not at peace and can never be at peace. So you go back to Genesis 3:3 and it no tolerance for those marks, apple pie and you have to say "how did they know that 5000 years ago we are supposed to be way smarter than the people from 50000 years ago but it seems like we are way dumber than the ones 5000 years ago at the start of the LSD party. So it seems these marks are creating angry ghosts or spirits and angry living dead ghosts or spirits and because it seems the majority of people who apply the remedy come out without their right brain traits so they are living dead dead(mentally) it seems that will continue and of course if you don't know what the remedy is, then you perhaps don't believe the mind has a flaw where if it says you will die if you don't hit the light switch after watching a scary alone in the dark, you may believe that's as simple as it is to become the living dead and if you are a goth type person who fancies dead living ghosts well religion is right up your alley because the Abraham and Isaac story is a adult making his child think he is going to stab him but when it comes down to it he didn't stab he just made his mind think he was going to get the death signal from his mind and that's how you can make a ghost people easily, but of course doing it alone is always going to eliminate the chances of things going south. Fewer people literally involved with the actual act the better. There is one girl who I met in IRC who actually applied it by tripping on acid and meditating in the dark and generally speaking she was scared out of her mind. She seemed very scared and because civilization doesn't even acknowledge something that was clearly explained how to achieve 5000 years ago that is scary. You mean the ones with the nukes cannot even come to terms with how to make ghost people even though religion explains how to do it and explained it 5000 years ago? What possibly could make you think whatever you are talking about no matter what it is, is more meaningful to talk about than ghost people making techniques. They are talking about taxes and education and how the children are our future and we need to give them the best education(numbers) money(numbers) can buy(numbers). It seems they are fully aware of it but they decided that making friend in "life" means they have an easy life but after they die they are going to have billions of angry spirits wanting to ask them some questions about their behavior and they have decided they would rather deal with angry spirits forever than you deal with "worldly" aspect for 100 years. Cognitive ability issues. that movie high plans drifter is a movie about this guy who was "good" he was a sheriff (i use that term loosely) and he was killed by bad people (loosely) and he came back to the town where he was killed and all the town people were on his side to fight (bad people) and he showed them how to deal with them but in the end the people in the town were way too afraid to do anything to help him and allowed the (bad guys) to do as they pleased and so he had to come back and deal with them himself. And that's why he was a ghost to begin with because when he was alive he tried to do (good) but the people didn't help him and so they allowed the (bad) guys to kill him. And so he came back as a ghost and was in the same situation except he was a ghost people and the town people did the same exact thing, and so eventually the disgruntled ghost realized he had to do it himself because you can't count on anyone in this vicinity because if you could this vicinity wouldn't be. If you don't have any enemies in infinity you will become your own enemy.

The movie flatliners in part is about people who decided to see if they could somehow experience death and still recover or see what it is like and then return and describe what they see. This of course is how that is achieved without using the drug induced/ medical aspects used in the film.

"One has to get the hypothalamus to give them the strongest signal it can give, the perceived death signal and when it does just ignore it or pay no attention to it." Anathema -Vol:18 Page 283

So that is what they attempted to basically the movie on one level is showing that it is possible to experience death but the catch is, once you do you can't return to the world of the living. This of course is perhaps better explained by saying that you can fit in the world of the living just don't tell anyone you are dead but mentally or perception wise you can never return because once you are dead you are dead. Relative to the that is generally say that once you experience what death is like you can't undo that or make that reality relative to you ever go away. The movie of course doesn't talk about the marks but it hints at it because it shows these people who experience this medically induced death attempting to rectify their life or attempting to mend the life they lived before they died and it goes through various experiences where people die and then these aspects of their life haunt them, like the story about the guy who treated someone poorly when he was alive and he tries to rectify that and the person he asks for forgiveness didn't really act like it was that big of a deal and then another one who mistreated another was haunted by that experience. This is actually very close to the reality. So the education disc onnects this part of the mind the right brain traits and then when one applies the "remedy" to that they realize the person they were when they were alive was not them. So some attempt to correct that and make that all go away and some attempt to avoid that and some never even make it very far. The percentages are not really known but some people collapse mentally or spiritually whatever you want to call it such a shock they just keep going so to speak. So the movie does cover this desperation that is experienced and sometimes that leaves a person in very odd situations. The lack of oversight in the whole affair is of course perhaps unfortunate. It perhaps is all relative to the presidents and the papyrus their faces are printed on. This is obvious when you look at the tribes who perform the same technique on their children some as early as three. So two groups of people and the exact same "methods" in principle are used to achieve the exact same affects and one group just goes on like nothing has happened and one group starts acting like roles from history and lore and attempt to live out this story that's not even real to begin with and so these people ghosts who would normally not act like they are acting are forced to act certain ways to blind into the system that's based on education and literacy. The two systems one where humans live without literacy and the one where humans live with literacy and both have these ghost people yet both systems are totally different and thus only one system works and the other system appears to work but it is based on the same principles that the education system, is based on and that is taking advantage of children, and then if some of those children somehow apply the remedy they are children again and are taken advantage of again. This creates a system where nobody is allowed to become adults and that's just a sample of how it is. There is intimidation and this communication that doesn't exist in the tribes ghost people at all. This is a symptom of the underlying death sentence the education gives people. If you get educated it's a death sentence because if you survive that you are a written education induced comatose patient and if you apply the remedy you are a ghost person living in a ghost hotel system that is not based on anything but ideas and concepts little children come up with. The old adage respect your elders is just that some comment that has absolutely no meaning at all in the literacy system. It's a total fraud if the elderly if there were any with elders values would not expose babies to literacy that is even scientifically proven to harm children. Some have even suggested it's not that bad, but in reality if your system's explanation at the end is, "and we mentally harm the children by teaching them literacy and can't suggest that so we have to deceive about that and if some of the children's education goes very bad and they do stupid responses to normal stimuli and kill their self, we can't explain that because that would insult the literacy". If that's the end by line of a system it's not a system it's some kind of child like based system and as long as you act like a child in the system you are fine but if you apply the remedy and somehow used your right brain during and after the literacy and before the remedy you may get your right brain traits back and thus it seems like a good luck or good thing but it's not it's a nightmare because you have a conscience and you're in a system that only the ones with no conscience thrive. The system itself is based on weeding out the ones with right brain traits by abusing and stressing, the ghost with right traits after the remedy. It's like if someone abuses a child in front of you after the remedy and you laugh or show no emotion you are "safe", you are a mindless specter or you at least have to act like that. That's not a system that's a torture tank. So there are these groups in this system that have to do what they do. If you have a conscience you stick out and thus you are targeted not because you did anything, but because you have right brain traits. And what even compounds it further is, this comment by Roger Sperry, my personal hero double agent, "what it comes down to is modern society discriminates against right hemisphere" is not just talking about the literacy, the science, reading writing and math, that's just for starters. If you come out of the education and survive that's one level of right brain discrimination, you perhaps have less than 5% chance of graduating high school and have much right brain traits chiming in to your corpus callosum as opposed to what the left brain is doing. That's the bridge that connects the signals coming from each hemisphere so as the education continues it starts at 50/50 and slowly it starts just favoring left hemisphere from all that; linear counting and spelling words in linear fashion. Literacy is not a problem it's a suicide pact. It's a plan by "the literacy god" to turn humans into consciousness beings that slowly but surely give up their ability to "care". It's kind of like, if you see a duck swimming in a pond and you decide to shoot it for no real reason but just to shoot it and then you walk laughing. That's what civilization is and that is the plan. It's like who can do the most cruel senseless thing and still laugh about it. Who can expose a child to literacy and then watch the child mentally flounder and then kill itself and then laugh at it. That's exactly what civilization is. If you think civilization is exactly like that you are what is called a written education induced comatose patient or you are a remedied written education induced comatose patient and you are so freaked out by your awareness of what civilization is so you keep your mouth shut. So there is this portion of civilization that is religious. A tiny portion of that group is legitimate. This is why many who apply the remedy become ghost people and then live solitary lives and that's no breeze because all of the ones that don't care are after them. If you are a subscriber to the ideal that you should not torment the dead or you should not screw around insulting the dead, or it's a bad idea to mess with the dead, you will find the exact reverse to all those aspects are happening. There is saying that says "all is love and fear is the illusion" but the only issue with anything anyone says in civilization that has a legitimate mouth piece is, they are part of the system and they are alive because they serve the system. The system that ends its description "and that's why we believe it's okay to mentally abuse children by law and also if it goes bad we just sit there and watch the child kill itself". I thought Ted Kazinski was a loon when I heard about him before I applied the remedy and now I see that is a pattern that happens to ones with a conscience or ghost people who survive the education with right hemisphere. As one speaker who believes in using your mind with both hemispheres suggested “the others are inhabited” and no matter how you try to deal with it or see it or even function in the system, if you are alive ghost or not you serve the system and eventually no matter what, you are gonna say somehow “its okay to mentally abused children with literacy and if its goes bad its okay to watch them kill their self”. One lady said “there are those who don’t want to know”. So it seems that some of these groups in other parts of the world that blow up schools and do things civilization says is “barbaric” are actually considering the situation the actual real true blue good guys. If you want to find a hero in this place that’s them. Anything less than zero tolerance relative to literacy is in fact homicide and suicide. Civilization is a death cult. On one level it’s a death cult for humanity meaning the eventuality is, humans will be replaced by machines or will destroy the planets resources and die off that way. On another level when you are born you have a pristine mind and that is taken from you by law with the literacy and that’s also taking your conscience and that can be seen in the movie flatliners, after the people see how they lived they were in shock like “that’s wasn’t me was it” and this urge to correct their self. On another level if you never apply the remedy you are what is known as a soft kill meaning they destroyed your mind with literacy and you will never recover but the moment you die, you will be aware of it and its debatable whether you want to compare someone who applies the remedy and lives as a ghost people and at least has some ability to speak against the death cult and a person who never applies the remedy and dies and then realizes they are powerless and unable to do anything about it. On another level if you apply the remedy and you come out of it with your right hemisphere you are again discriminated against and the proof if you are “uninitiated” is, do you hear any leaders in civilization saying “Yeah and that mental abuse of children with the literacy and watching them when it goes south fast kill their self that’s not really important or an issue”

So what is not happening or what is not said is the evidence for what is. Whatever is said is usually from ghost people who made a deal with civilization. There is one girl who lived in her minivan and she was interviewed and she said slowly they made me not have friends or made all my friends not like me and now I live in this minivan and I have lost all hope in humanity. That’s what literacy gets you. Thoth is one of the oldest gods and also an Egyptian god. Most things that happened in civilization no matter what the “event was” or what it was talking about religion or not was orchestrated by this Thoth the literacy god. Another level is before there was a devil or God there was Thoth. So anything that happened after genesis, the start of literacy, is the construct of Thoth and masked by calling it civilization. That means anyone who says aspects of civilization are unbearable are usually “issues”, but if you attack literacy itself you are suggesting a huge “hole” in civilization. It is impossible to ever have anything what would be considered civilization from 5000 ago to today, unless you have literacy to be exact, science, reading writing and math. You can just think quickly about if there were no number system. Nothing in civilization could function. From roads to buildings to technology, primitive or modern and of course let's not leave the biggest issue, taxes. Someone has to pay for the school to educate all the children. My theory about Martin Luther King and Malcolm X is identical, both certainly were ghost people, perhaps, but it seems like they were aware of what they were dealing with and also aware of their "torment" so they did whatever they could do to get an early checkout. They had a conscience and they were aware of what was happening right brain awareness, and so some see them as these people who said this or said that, in reality they didn't really affect the system at all in fact they played into it and now the system says this and that about them but the system never acknowledges them as ghost people because the system is based on a principle that can never be addressed ever. First though the literacy god can never say literacy is flawed it has to always be perfect. And two if literacy called into question then discussion about the remedy will occur and then the ghost hotel reality will be revealed. Those are two chinks in the armor of though the literacy god that either one would be fatal. And that's why Roger Sperry is my hero because he hit one of em.

"In the later history of ancient Egypt, Thoth became heavily associated with the arbitration of godly disputes,[9] the arts of magic, the system of writing, the development of science,[10] and the judgment of the dead." = wikipedia

X = "What it comes down to is that modern society discriminates against the right hemisphere." - Roger Sperry (1973) Neurobiologist and Nobel Laureate

Y = "In humans, the frontal lobe reaches full maturity around only after the 20s, marking the cognitive maturity associated with adulthood" - Giedd, Jay N. (October 1999). "Brain Development during childhood and adolescence: a longitudinal MRI study". Nature neuroscience 2 (10): 861-863.

Z = "If you reflect back upon our own educational training, we have been traditionally taught to master the 3 R's: reading, writing and arithmetic -- the domain and strength of the left brain" -The Pitek Group, LLC. Michael P. Pitek, III (Thoth became heavily associated with the arbitration of godly disputes) = judge = relative to numbers as in numbers are required to give sentences in criminal or civil cases. Life sentences, second offense, third offense. Judgment is essentially relative to punishment for behavior but Thoth is immune to punishment because Thoth is the judge of everyone and since Thoth has judged that all human children will get literacy Thoth has judged our fate as a species is finished we will be used by Thoth until we destroy the environment and then we will perish and our minds and the minds of all future offspring have already been determined and thus all human children in civilization have been judged to have a bad mind at birth by Thoth and thus they will have a literacy mind one bent to the left caused by learning literacy long before their mind develops (see Y).

(,[9] the arts of magic, the system of writing, the development of science,[10] and the judgment of the dead.) = these are all the same so to explain it, on one level it would just be to say "Magic is reading writing and math and that is also considered science but in reality science is a nice word for magic or sorcery." Education or literacy is in fact teaching the children sorcery and magic and they will be using this sorcery for the rest of their lives and thus literacy is magic and the school teaches the children magic and if you attempt to say I don't want to do that you will be dealt with and there are no rules or laws so Thoth will deal with you any way Thoth sees fit and there is nothing you are aware of can do about it ever. The suggestion of "you have choice" in reality you have no choice in any matter of consequence and no one you are aware of has had a choice since Genesis or the start of literacy except for Thoth, Thoth is the judge of everyone and he has judged using his number determination system that everyone gets literacy and thus an unsound mind but you get to decide inconsequential things like "its best if I never read anything this aspect arranges in a linear fashion on papyrus"

"and the judgment of the dead." = This of course is relative to the remedy. Long story short –

"One has to get the hypothalamus to give them the strongest signal it can give, the perceived death signal and when it does just ignore it or pay no attention to it." Anathema -Vol:18 Page 283

So what is called the remedy is not something exclusive to literacy and civilization, its in fact something that's possible even without literacy or civilization and thus its is a separate aspect, getting the mind or tricking the mind into thinking the person has died and thus the person is a ghost person. But in civilization it just so happens to be the remedy to the literacy everyone is taught. Because Thoth is the god of literacy that explains why civilization the baby of Thoth wipes out any tribal members simply because they are not of literacy and that is magic and sorcery. So this system is magic based and sorcery based system and utilizes the living dead or ghost people to perpetuate itself. So a cycle in the system relative to humans is this.

Person is born then they are encouraged to get literacy, the magic and sorcery and they essentially have to be involved in the numbers to even exist in the system it perhaps is impossible to be in the civilization system or Thoth's system and not use numbers and this of course is by design, to be in civilization you have to be number literate or magic/sorcery literate. This means on one level there is no such thing in civilization or any group that is in civilization or even remotely a part of civilization that is not a sorcerer and that goes all the way back to genesis and continues on into the future until civilization destroys the environment and thus destroys itself and that is certain and unavoidable because Thoth has ways of doing things but those ways are never what would be considered sane and the end result as the ancient texts have suggested is "the wages of sin is death" or better yet "the wages of a number based system is death" or "If you alter everyone mind as children you kill yourself in the long run" or "If you mess with how things are relative to human children's mind you kill yourself" or "There are no stories about people who use steroids coming out and saying "and in the long run using steroids was worth it."" So the system is

A = child taught literacy

B = Thoth

C = Literate person who applied remedy is ghost person

A = B (C)

All children are influenced by Thoth and also the ghost people are doing Thoth's bidding with what appears to be the exception and that is Thoth cannot ever insult literacy, or science because that is in fact magic and sorcery and so somehow Thoth cannot ever insult what his essence is, perhaps or That's some kind of weakness. And thus the two chinks in Thoth's armor are of course Literacy and the remedy to literacy and it works as a double edge inclusive aspect. If literacy is explained as having flaws then the next question will be what is the remedy to the flawed literacy. And then the second aspect is if you just suggest the remedy or how to make ghost people. Any people in civilization get literacy and thus if they apply the remedy they will be aware of what literacy did to their mind as children. So it works both ways relative to explaining the system. If you say literacy has flaws then you also expose the remedy/ghost people and if you just explain how to make ghost people you automatically expose the flaws in the literacy.

And then came the shot = [take out "evil" chaos, freedom its "evil" to order or fascism

The story of Thoth. Thoth is described in history as the following. It is most important you put a “perhaps” in front of every sentence, especially this one.

Thoth was described self-created or perhaps that’s a way to say Thoth always was. The issue with Thoth is his personality was not like humans personalities. Humans at the time were hunter and gatherers and so they essentially lived a fixed life. That means as some tribes have explained the men got up in the morning and went and hunted and gathered and the women prepared the village and took care of the kids and then when the men returned they all ate food and then as one tribal person suggested “we had sex the rest of the night and no one can beat our system.” Thoth was more of a personality like a person who decides to climb Mount Everest or a person that decides to go to the moon. Of course that’s a mentality of more like things that are done for little or no general reward but `more things relative to “look what I can do” type of personality perhaps like a person who does dangerous things for the thrill but after the thrill is gone they have to find something else and thus Thoth’s personality could be described in a positive light as a thrill seeker or go getter. Thoth of course is not a person and thus he or she had to `find a way to get his personality into humans because humans `were like most creates very simple. Simple meaning they had a hunt and gather system and it worked and by worked that means it viable ` for thousands and perhaps millions of years. The system of hunt and gather worked and never failed and thus the system was viable. Anyone can make a system like a person` can say “I have a system to gain muscle bulk I just shoot up steroids” and soon after the4y have huge muscles and they can go on a circuit and tell all the parents to shoot their children up with steroids because it is a system to gain muscles and thus the children can be much stronger than the non steroid children and thus that steroid system is in fact a competitive syste4m relative to non steroid shooting children’s system. And so it’s selling point would be “The steroid shooting group is much stronger than the non steroid shooting group.” So Thoth system was generally based on the premise “maximize the positive and mock the negative aspects of the system.” And thus Thoth was starting to work on his “game” based on what the situation was. Of course the humans would have nothing to do with Thoth because they were already content with their viable system. For example the tribes had methods to become ghost people and what they did is called them courage test for the children and they would place small children alone in the forest at night and leave them and come back in the morning and this “fear elimination” feat was a way to create a child that had more abilities than they were born with. Similar to how steroids work. It’s an old method to get more out of the person. It played on a flaw in the mind that if the mind believed the person died it would act like it or a better way to explain it is, certain aspect of the mind that give fear signals are somewhat primitive and thus if you can make the mind think you died like by watching a scary movie and when the mind says you will die if you don’t turn the light if you do not turn on the light your mind will think you died and thus you will be a ghost person from that point on. Of course humans have since been so educated that that kind of reality is frowned on or it’s a part of human reality that is “embarrassing” or from the Thoth point of view an asset that should be hidden. Not always the case but with Thoth things changed, humans were “convinced” that their viable system was boring or wrong or old fashioned and this new system was better. So the first thing Thoth had to do was get some converts for his magic. This required the person to be taught the system. Today it is called science because if they called it sorcery and magic it would be considered less popular since all the children were going to get it. So back in Egypt it seemed like a new thing and it was no threat until its methods of proselytizing became evident. Generally if someone does not agree with your way of doing things a discussion perhaps occurred but then that person would walk on, agree to disagree kind of thing. Thoth found out early on that humans were not going to ever willingly give their children to Thoth and his "literacy" methods when they had a viable system that worked and had a history of working for hundreds of thousands of years. This early stage is where Thoth started to become quite the general and military leader because the resistance towards his "system" was so great the only way Thoth could survive was to throw sensibilities to the wind and win at all cost. It's kind of like when a person decides they are going to do something and then all other aspects become secondary. So essentially it was whittled down to, if you don't like Thoth and his "magic - literacy" taught to your children one way or another you're going to be "taken care of". Of course the real cost to the humans is their sanity. Thoth literacy could not be taught to children and then the child comes out of it with a sound mind. Thus any child who taught the magic marks at the conclusion of the teachings they were insane. Not insane because the methods or teachings were insane but insane because humans cannot learn science as a child without it destroying their normal mental development. Thus Thoth understood all he had to do was get one town to become literate from childhood and the whole planet was his. The reason for this is because once you create these literate humans they are up against sane humans. Another way to say it is a human with no limits will always defeat a human with limits. Another way to say it is a human with no morals will always defeat a human with morals. This led to the reality that literate human's could not live with non-literate humans. This is perhaps the first instance of behavioral conditioning. If you place a human that does drugs in a situation with a human that does not do drugs the chances are eventually one of those two points of view, drug use or not, will win. Rock and a hard place. It's like if you take a person and put enough pressure on them they will crumble. Of course if that person is say addicted to a deadly drug that kind of treatment is not uncaring. If you do something because a person appears to be making a fatal mistake then you may be considered kind. For example if a person is going into the ocean and you say "I just saw 10 shark fins not far off shore so you may want to avoid that." And then that person goes in and gets eaten you can consider your gesture kind. If that person cannot hear and you cannot explain it to them you may have to even do some sort of pressure tactics in fact you may have to even trick that person to make sure they do not go into the water, but of course this still an act of kindness if that person does go into the ocean with sharks. But Thoth had a big issue from the start. He could never get around the affect of the literacy on the mind of a child. That was not the main point of things at all because that is like perhaps like making a child run a mile and when they are done they are tired and maybe sore but they get over it and maybe they are tougher at the end of the day. Thoth system because of the literacy reality essentially Thoth learned traits that humans exhibited were weaknesses and in fact relative to this physical plane and control of the planet and all its civilizations Thoth was completely correct. Thoth was right. Mercy is a flaw. Compassion is a flaw. In a war both aspects are a flaw. The army that shows neither will win any war. War depends on that. The main issue with that is life is not a war because life is a process. Being born is not a war. Growing up is not a war. Having offspring is not a war. Making proper decisions so the species involved propagates is not a war. Death is not a war. Thoth is very war related or infused. War is not bad but everything is not a war and thus if you think it is, that's bad. Someone attempted to explain that to Thoth by saying "There is a time for this and a time for that." One woman when asked if she wanted her child to be exposed to literacy said she would rather not have a child than to have harm come to it. That was not a moral stance and that also was not a "religious" stance that was the answer of a mother relative to her offspring and there are perhaps no "proper" mothers in the animal kingdom that would ever answer differently. It's some kind of hardwired response to ensure propagation of the species. If that hardwire wasn't in the species females perhaps most species that have females that species would die off swiftly. So Thoth recognized this and understood the way to "winning" was not defeating the males it was defeating the females and this tactic was to make the females not act like females. This was perhaps the earliest known genetic altering. So it already as soon as Thoth started this "conquest" aspect that started to look like "science" came about. This is what the system known as civilization is:

"Thoth became heavily associated with the arbitration of godly disputes, the arts of magic, the system of writing, the development of science, and the judgment of the dead."

A substituting of words is required. Godly = ghosts: writing and science = math and that = magic or sorcery. Judgment is relative to numbers (think prison sentences and school tests) If you remove numbers from civilization there is no civilization and if you remove civilization there are no numbers and thus civilization is number or numbers are civilization. There are perhaps less than 100 million human beings left on this planet. The seven billion are Thoth's literate creations whose mothers have been genetically "modified" to not "care" about the well being of their child relative to getting "Thoth's literacy." This of course is all "physical based" rhetoric. The whole "save the planet" or "save the world" or "save civilization", that's a chuckler. It just so happens that "right brain" is the one that takes a hit when learning literacy. Its not a "plan" its not "luck" and it's not intentional. One half of the brain can do numbers and one half can't. there were no numbers 100,000 years ago but there were humans. So it's like Thoth showed up and it just so happened his "baby" math/literacy/magic didn't like right brain. That's the reality of the situational awareness and of course reality cares about something just not your opinion about it. If you are on the titanic and it hits an iceberg and you have the decision to ring the alarm or act like nothing happened, if you are the kind of "person" that would not ring the bell and just act like nothing is happening then don't read past this point.

So Thoth became quite a warrior or as warrior god but this was not because he fought with with some great skill or cleverness it was actually because Thoth fought his own battle and that was Thoth broke the rules. Thoth could not win if he exhibited what are called morals or limits so Thoth fought with no rules and no morals. It would be like a person who fought a battle and anything went but this was not only on a physical scale this was mostly relative to this "the arts of magic, the system of writing, the development of science, and the judgment of the dead." So these "arts" we first brought into use and developed in Thoth battles. It would be like a situation where a dictator went to war for control and there was no oversight. It would be like today a dictator from a tiny country attacking a huge first world power country and winning because for example they used nukes and the big country they were fighting did not use nukes and thus this tiny country would win it war that it should have lost but because it was willing to use nukes and the big country was not willing to use nukes the tiny country won handily. But we are not talking about nukes we are talking about “magic arts”. So Thoth had in his army the people he exposed to the literacy and thus became Thoth like, example no morals or conscience because their mind was altered by the literacy so they were willing participants but they were not aware of what the literacy did to their mind and so they were not consciously aware they were moral participants in Thoth “war of control”. On another level there was the “the dead.” These were people who applied the remedy to get their mind back but were unable to find “help” so they were forced to do Thoth’s bidding. Some even started to suggest if you serve Thoth you are somehow “saved, blessed, spiritually correct” and so this started what was known as the “good people” in Thoth’s world. This of course was a tactic Thoth used and also relative on one level to the comment “dammed if you do and damned if you don’t” This is what today is known as dialectics. For example if I want you to eat a sandwich I can give you three choices do you want a baloney, liver or beef sandwich, and no matter what one you pick I made sure you ate a sandwich. Because of the incorporation of this “magic” and in conjunction with the “dead” in his army if a human who applied the remedy and was a ghost stood up to it they were in fact going up against “the good and the evil” because both served Thoth and this tactic was a dialectic. Do you want to be “good or evil” if you chose evil then you still were a slave to Thoth but not on an absolute scale and if you decided to be “good” you were a slave To Thoth on an absolute scale. Its kind of like you get to pick how fucked you want to be after you apply the remedy to the literacy magic that is administered to you as a child and you factually have no choice about that. So the illusion of choice starts after the “most important” choice is made for you against your will. This creates an airtight strategy. If you do something somehow to avoid the literacy all together then all sides of the literates will attack you unless you somehow find a place to hide, if you get the remedy to the literacy and resist making a “choice” about “good or evil” then you default back to the “tribe” point of view and thus you are attacked from all side by the “good and evil” and if you join Thoth’s “good and evil” then you have to do his bidding even if it against your will and that means you generally speaking will be tasked to “assault” the ones who apply the remedy and resist thoths dialectic “good and evil” choice, and thus you will be just like the civilization was to you as a child. You will become a slave to attacking your own brothers and sisters for Thoth. If one looks at this on a scale of “physical” it does not appear to be happening at all but once you factor in that literacy is really just magic and sorcery and factor in the “dead” aspect that is not totally relative to literacy but using a method even non literates are aware of you have a nice “undead” army. This of course means all of civilization is on one level or another influenced by this army. You can say whatever you want but if you attack the literacy considering civilization is a literacy based system and could not exist without literacy/magic/sorcery/numbers no matter what you can see the only real alternative is to say nothing or just attack in all directions. This of course improves Thoth/science/technology because if no one fights then technology and battle tactics cannot be honed or perfected. Some have suggested it like “whack a mole” and some start out against the system but eventually just give up and so civilization is in fact a perfectly solid fascist dictatorship with Thoth at the helm and no contenders to speak of and this means eventually most simply end up supporting the literacy mental child abuse as well as the reality that some children are killed or commit suicide when the literacy goes bad. This of course means in reality there are no rules or laws and that is what Thoth's tactic require because Thoth is not concerned with winning fairly or having a conscience after the war and so Thoth learns and then after 5000 years of this war tactics has a air tight system so it seems. But in reality its quite a flimsy system and easy to defeat because reality is not a war. If you based your reality on the premise reality is war then you miss entire area's and leave yourself open because reality is not a war. It can be moments of war but that's one branch of reality. So on one level Thoth's baby is this:

“the arts of magic, the system of writing, the development of science”

Without this aspect Thoth dies or Thoth cannot or Thoth is defenseless. If you expose the literacy then you expose the system relative to “the dead”. If you expose the “dead” you expose the literacy. If either are expose on a world stage it will put the system called civilization under a strain because it will be self evident there are no laws. There are marks arranged in a linear fashion on papyrus that suggest you cannot do something to a baby to bring it harm and literacy does that and also you cannot kill a child and literacy does that. So civilization would in turn be faced with a proof of concept situation. You can arrange marks on papyrus that say you are god all day long but if you can easily be defeated just by exposing your “tools of power” using the marks on papyrus, you are not even in the lowest acceptable range of being considered a god, you are just delusional. On another level this is mostly physical aspects discussed “who gets to control the shit pile” mostly. The unseen reality for most is that people who are exposed to this literacy and apply the remedy, if they come out on the other side of that with various what could be loosely called “mental situations” they are stuck with that forever. They are already ghosts so physical death is not going to change their “mental situation” and thus they are like they are forever and ever. This of course may be totally overlooked by Thoth. It may just be a situation that Thoth is not aware of even in the slightest because of this nature or being war like and physical focused or matter based and suggesting loosely that science is the study of matter and so is “sorcery and magic” at least Thoth's brand or flavor. So the very fabric of civilization would in fact be put in a defensive position because the literacy harms child's minds and some even kill their self as a result and thus that is murder. If civilization could not effectively address this on a world scale civilization would begin to crumble because every person in civilization would realize, there are no rules so the system they are in is in fact a chaos system and there are no rules and there is no order. No matter how you want to look at it , if this scale of reality makes you afraid it does not affect the reality and if this scale makes you glad to be aware of that does not affect the reality. It is perhaps impossible to deal with reality unless you are able to face reality. There was one person who was in some “group” going up against civilization and he was speaking and in one sentence he said “try to avoid going along to get alone” and then a few moments later he said “The system works for the most part” perhaps one observation was on the funny scale in my linear arrangement of the mark papyrus collection and that person said “its mostly one long postponement” of course that also on another level suggesting physical death releases you and it does not or your state of mind after the remedy means infinity is how you are going to be after application of the remedy. If you want the easy way out you can just not apply the remedy and pretend everything is just great. That the undisputed easy way. Avoid the remedy and to hell with everyone else, you are the most important thing. That of course is also relative to the mindset the literacy puts one in. The perception altering makes one look at the world like no matter what happens its probably that person fault.

Maria Herrera (12) committed suicide after being bullied at school

So its easy to just say this child should have known the literacy has been proved by scientist to harm or affect the mind and thus perception and so this child did not know that and thus this child acted on normal everyday stimuli with an unreasonable appearing reaction. On another level that was not a child that was a child who was exposed to Thoth baby, magic/science/numbers and acted pretty much like Thoth acts and so this concept of possession applies of course. Perhaps on another level its best just to say, if you are born with a perception called “50/50” and you mess around with sorcery and you perception becomes more like “20/70” and you kill yourself because the wind blows, you physically died in a state of possession and that is how you will remain for infinity. So any reaction to this situation other than all out war by any means necessary means you have become in fact a member of the magic sorcery group that does this to the children. But that’s of course on a physical level, spiritually or on a ghost level, anything except all out war relative top this situation means you are in fact sending people into infinity in a ghost state called possessed and they will remain like that forever and that level is perhaps a level that means each person no matter what they think are involved and they are going to have to face the reality they are creating relative to that. Meaning these possessed spirits are real and if you support the system that makes them you are perhaps certainly on their menu. As far as heaven and hell, that’s perhaps a lore. For example if you grasp that literacy does harm children and you were one of them and you say “that not very nice to do to a child no matter what tard ass “concept” someone aspect may suggest to make it seem okay.” You are considered “good” not on civilization lore scale of “good and evil” that’s just lore and a part of the system. You are “good” on an absolute scale and if you wake up every day and say “I’m not okay doing that to children with that magic/literacy” you are good. And if you wake up and say “:that’s the way it is we have to educated the children they are our future” or are absolute evil. Perhaps changing the mind is always an option but that is real “good and evil” and no “we are not all good” that’s just lore coming from the mouth of Thoth. I had people I knew when I was very young early teens and twenties and they no reveal they were aware of the situation and the remedy but they not tell me it and they perceive they are somehow “good” and we are “:friends” and we are “similar” but they are gravely mistaken. On one level I wish they never told me that fact and on another level I am very happy they told me that fact. So civilizations aspect that “you are good or evil” is simply not anything but Thoth dialectic and no matter what you pick if at the end of the day you do things Thoth's way you are "evil". On another level if you are "ok" with literacy you are "evil" because it not literacy or science its magic and sorcery and the thing about magic and sorcery some may not know is you cannot practice it unless you have given yourself away and not on a physical level as much as a spiritual level. On another level Im playing this new video game and its Ai opponent is showing promise, very effective and able to adapt. It may be anything invented or created after genesis the start of literacy is suspect. So there was genesis and thus literacy and not absolutely but generally speaking Thoth's tactics to subdue ones who remedy the magic/literacy. Its perhaps on another level not morally praise worthy to go up against the literates but it is perhaps factually morally obligatory. Most who suggest there are rules relative to this "war" wreak of hope and war is a bad time to exhibit that. Thoth is not death Thoth just has magic and sorcery that can induce physical death and because the civilization system is of Thoth they could never "prove it". Perhaps its name is not Thoth but if you notice Thoth is the literacy god and if you take away the first and last letter of his name you get a nice understanding.- 2/13/2016 2:20:37 PM EST
